“AL MURATSUCHI’S teacher-union bill would have endangered children by making it even harder to fire sexually abusive teachers. Fortunately, Governor Brown vetoed it.”

“Fake reform”

San Diego Union-Tribune, 10-13-13

Cookie Monster

Teacher Mark Berndt fed his third-grade students cookies laced with his semen. But teacher union rules made it hard to fire Berndt, so the district gave him $40,000 to resign. He later went to prison.

“Instead of being horrified by a pervert teacher,” Assemblyman Al Muratsuchi co-authored a “fake reform” bill for teacher unions making it “even more difficult to fire pervert teachers.”

San Diego Union-Tribune, 10-13-13

School reformers said Muratsuchi’s bill “disastrously increases the likelihood that perpetrators will ... inflict child abuse again” and “permit teachers who jeopardize the safety of students to legally return to their classrooms.”

Bill Lucia, EdVoice; Wes Smith, Association of California School Administrators

Teacher unions spent over $200,000 to elect Al Muratsuchi.
They got what they paid for.
